

CHRIS KEOGH

In April 2018 I dislocated my neck (C6/7) in a freak accident playing football. I spent 7 months in hospital and rehabilitated in the London Spinal Cord Injury Centre at RNOH Stanmore.

Since leaving hospital, I have joined PwC's Financial Services team supporting a portfolio of the firm's priority Banking and Insurance clients. I partner with CEOs and their leadership to help them leverage the PwC network and suite of services to drive forward their most critical strategic objectives.

I have proven success in managing C-level client relationships across a broad range of industries and geographies covering FTSE 100/250, S&P 350, and private organisations, offering value-added strategic insight into their businesses.

I am currently undergoing neurological rehab so I can (hopefully) get back up on two feet before I get married in May 2021. It's an honour to be a trustee of this amazing charity and I look forward to doing what I can to best support our network.